Super-Technology Interaction

The goals of the organization is to serve as a resource for scholars in the field who desire information and support for research related to the African and African American, Hispanic, Latino(a) and Chicano(a), Native American and Asian experiences:

Objectives:

To promote acquaintanceship and group effort among those interested in African Americans, Hispanics, Latinos(as) and Chicanos(as), Native Americans and Asians;

To further the cause of research in African American, Hispanic, Latino(a) and Chicano(a), Native American and Asian Studies;

To stimulate greater public interest in and better informed public opinion regarding African Americans, Hispanics, Latinos(as) and Chicanos(as), Native Americans and Asians;

To serve as a forum for the expression of research and artistic endeavors in the celebration of the lives and works of African Americans, Hispanics, Latinos(as) and Chicanos(as), Native Americans and Asians;

To provide research and information on African American, Hispanic (Latino/a and Chicano/a), Native American and Asian Studies in publications and a refereed journal.

To promote globalization through international forums; To maintain archives which will be made available to all who are desirous of using available resources; and to support and host a national conference each year which will provide students and scholars an opportunity to present research in an open forum

Presentations

Mr. Derrick K. Yates presented a paper at the NAAAS Conference on "Why Does Hazing Occur in HBCU Bands in the United States of America."

Congratulations to Interim Director of Bands Derrick K. Yates and the "Marching Maroon & White" Band. They were awarded the "Key to the City" of New Orleans as part of the unit's participation in the Mardi Gras festivities this 2013.

Dr. Kyla Pitcher, Director of the Honors Program at AAMU presented a paper at the NAAAC Conference on "The Musical Journey of Opera Singer Lenora Lafayette: A Louisiana Treasure"
NAAAS Provides:

Teacher Training Program (2010 -)

A select program is provided annually that addresses an issue found in many K-12 school systems. The training is lead for three days by a nationally recognized teacher/scholar who is engaged in pre K-12 education.

Publishers' Corner (2009 -)

Recently published books are posted on the website to better inform the profession of available literature that may be used in the classroom, for research and/or general reading.

Regional Meetings (2011-)

The national organization hosts regional meetings in early fall (September/October). Each regional meeting generally has one (1) affiliate participating. This approach provides that organization an opportunity to acquire additional members, build a new base of support in a select region, acquire developmental services from local agencies, and serve as a new resource for educational institutions in that region.

"A leader is best when people barely know he exists; not so good when people obey and acclaim him; worse when they despise him; but of a good leader, who talks little, when his work is done, his aim fulfilled, they will say: We did it ourselves." -Lao Tsu

Presentations at NAAAS

Historically, the national organization has served as host for a national conference each February. The conference attracts scholars from colleges and universities across the United States and many foreign countries (e.g., Australia, Canada, China, England, Ghana, India, Nigeria, Norway, Pakistan, Poland, Rwanda, Saudi Arabia, Turkey, U.A.E.). The national conference traditionally provides opportunities for scholars, students, and guests to engage in intellectual dialogue on a broad range of topics. Traditional subject areas include immigration issues, social sciences, HIV/AIDS, fine arts, business, political sciences, health sciences, history, education, medicine, law, etc. Information is shared with attendees through paper presentations, round table discussions, panels and demonstrations. The national organization provides undergraduate honors and graduate students the opportunity to participate in the conference through the creation of poster presentations. More than one hundred students participate in the poster presentation program on an annual basis.

*The Theme for 2013 Conference this Year:
"We Build Our Bridges Together"*

Recruitment from different Universities takes place at the NAAAS with students entering the conference from all over the world.
